Students compete in snapshot competition

More than 1,800 students from 80 secondary schools in Hong Kong, China and Australia recently took part in the first ever 'Think Great Snapshot Competition.' Organised by Wiseman Education and supported by the Education Bureau... (continued inside)

... and Hong Kong Parents Association, the competition not only encouraged students to create snapshots that told a story, but also to think about the world around them.

The competition combined photography and English writing skills. Each entrant had to submit a photograph, a title for their work, plus a caption and a small piece of commentary text to explain how the idea for the snapshot came about. Entries also had to illustrate one of 3 given themes: social issues, popular culture, or inspiring people and amazing deeds. Participants were encouraged to find a topic that was inspiring or meaningful to them.

No one should stop!

"I want the photo to remind everyone that no matter what the future will be, everyone should face it positively and never give up. During our lifetime, we face a lot of difficulties on the way to making our dreams come true. Life is like a marathon, it's arduous but meaningful. Just like athletes, we should never give up on our dreams." Wing Mar (PLKCHC)

Carousel is going far away from us

"People in Hong Kong are always busy. We work hard for a living and for a better quality of life. Homework, examinations, tests and books have also become a tremendous burden on children — and few of us have time to play. I miss the feeling of riding on carousels — just enjoying life and being free." Lucia (HKSRL)

Treasure the pleasures

"I wanted this picture — an advert for extravagant luxury goods with 2 men who have no access to life's basic necessities — to draw attention to the gap between the rich and the poor in our society. The rich 'have' should pay attention to those who have nothing — no food to eat. We should all treasure our pleasures." Minnie (S...)

Puppy or baby?

"I took this photo in a Chinese restaurant — I was stunned to see a dog eating from its owner's bowl. It's amazing to see the close bond between the two, but the situation is unnatural. Dogs are intelligent creatures that were first domesticated to work for people, but nowadays dogs are often just small and 'decorative.' Like substitutes for children, they are treated to expensive food, luxurious hair cuts, clothes and even 'dog spas'." Shan Yung (SPCS)

Olympic venues made of cards

Using over 2,400 packs of playing cards, and no glue or sticky tape, Bryan Berg, a champion card stacker from USA, has built a model of the Beijing Olympic Village. The model took 3 weeks to complete and is on display at Langham Place, Hong Kong, until Thursday.
